ABOUT THIS NEW EVENT

The SPE Subsea Well Intervention Symposium will share the latest technologies and case studies in subsea intervention, subsea well abandonment, marine technology, high pressure operations, and regulatory issues.

With today’s reality of unconventional resources providing much of the new production, deepwater E&P must find new ways to remain economically viable. In this environment, deepwater interventions have a key role to play in replacing reserves that are increasing in demand. Now, we look to the future for new opportunities.

The Program Committee has put on some great intervention programs in the past, and this year they will do it at this event!

We encourage your company to share its expertise by sponsoring and exhibiting at this event!

KEY REASONS TO PARTICIPATE

• The operators and top decision makers will be there
• Great content draws quality audiences, and this event has high-quality content
